

AGRICULTURE ENFORCEMENT UNIT

NEVADA'S ANIMAL AGRICULTURE IS AT RISK!

BE ALERT

For an Emergency Animal Disease Outbreak

PREVENTION—

Viruses, bacteria, and pests can hitch a ride on imported animals and plants, and the clothing, bodies, and possessions of travelers.

Illegal smuggling of animals or plants, and animal products can pose a serious risk to Nevada's agriculture and food supply.

RECOGNITION — KNOW THE WARNING SIGNS:

Sudden, unexplained illness or death loss in the herd or nursery

Severe illness affecting a high percentage of the animals in a herd or region

Blistering around an animal's mouth, nose, teats, or hooves

Unusual ticks or maggots or plant pests

Staggering, falling, or other central nervous system disorders in animals

REPORTING—

Report immediately if you suspect illegal animal, plant, or agriculture product movement; or , if your herd is showing signs of a potential emergency animal disease outbreak.

In case of animal disease, you should call your private veterinarian first.
